

NERD-NO-MORE™

Dave

Before

After

It wasn't easy being Dave's parents. Bragging about their son was easy. He was the starting quarterback for the Draughton High School football team, and five colleges were working very hard to recruit him.

On the other hand, those five colleges, his coach, the alumni, and most of the students spent their time telling him just how great he was. And he believed it. Boy, did he believe it!

He talked back to his parents and all but ignored his teachers. The only reason his homework got done was because he bullied some poor nerd into doing it. More than one girl talked about being forced to have sex, though charges of rape were never filed. (It would hurt the boy's future for him to be so charged.)

After his mother slipped him a dose of NERD-NO-MORE™ in his protein shake, Dave was gone, replaced by Debbie, pretty, sweet Debbie. After a second dose of NERD-NO-MORE™, even Debbie forgot who she'd been. She's still going to college, though. These days, cheerleaders can get athletic scholarships, even with bad grades, and Debbie is quiet healthy – maybe too healthy -- and quite limber, just ask her boyfriends, Al, Harry, and Jeff. And the football coach. And her math teacher. And...

NERD-NO-MORE™; just see what it can do.